

My Favorite World #34

Life is busy in the bloggy vineyard, with overlapping deadlines combining with ridiculous hot weather to sap my precious bodily fluids, leaving me weakened of my essence, Mandrake.

But I would be remiss if I failed to share this photo from daughter's soon to be stomping grounds. Apparently, I have the sense of humor of a 14 year old. I am unashamed.